

Form Some Ideals in Life

A human being is an ideal, living being among God's creations, who has thinking power, conscious power. The human can be graded the highest among all other living species. The vibrations of human beings' thoughts flow in all directions. Since the human soul's mind is very powerful, it makes an effect on nature, others people and species too. If a human being becomes vicious, then animals become vicious as well. If the members of some family are peaceful in nature, then the same will be seen of the pets in that house. The human being is the pillar of the world. When we are peaceful and happy, then nature and the entire world becomes a peaceful kingdom.

Just as much as a human being is important, so are their thoughts. Keeping this in mind, we need to make some powerful rules and regulations in life. A life without values or fundamentals is valueless. Once the fundamentals are formed, a person should imbibe them in life with determination; no matter what sacrifices we have to make, we should stick to our ideals.

Given below are some principles. Making them your life's companions will give you lots of satisfaction and you may become popular due to these ideals. You may have to pass through some tests when you imbibe these rules, but will pass with flying colours. Remember, gold is purified only after putting it in fire and burning out the alloy. Until the alloy is not removed, the dirt in your life will remain. Some principles are:

- I will give happiness to everyone in all situations. I will never give sorrow to anyone.
- I will always remain humble and never allow arrogance to enter the temple of my life.
- My aim will be to protect the weak
- I will not waste my time in mocking others or think waste about others or indulge in useless talk
- I will not lose courage in any situation
- I will remain a hard worker and not be slack
- I will never use bitter language
- I will never indulge in any disputes because of wealth etc.
- I will always keep myself full with the treasure of contentment
- I will never lie or be unfair with anyone

Some more fundamentals could be formed and kept in front of our family or society since these values have disappeared from our present society. Everyone is drifting in the stream of Iron Age. No one has the courage to choose a different path and the new generation has become disheartened not finding any ideals, and feel that unrighteousness is the way of life. We cannot blame the new generation. All the ideals have got hidden in the dark clouds of corruption and misconduct, so no one can find a bit of truth. We have to remove the curtain and see who comes forward to show the ideals.

As it was mentioned earlier, if anyone wants to stick with their fundamentals, he/she may have to tolerate a lot from people but eventually, success will be theirs. The whole world will praise their worth and follow their way of living. So throw away the fear of helplessness and form some firm ideals in your life. Remember, whatever a human being wants to do, he/she can do it.

All the members of a family can join together and form some resolutions. One gentleman had instilled a rule that he would never allow non-veg food to be cooked in his house, nor drink alcohol or offer it to anyone in a party. Though he had to attend lots of big parties and guests in his house would request for non-veg food, he remained firm on his ideals. No matter where he was, he would take only vegetarian food and others too started adopting a vegetarian diet, with the result that he became famous in his community and his clan is following these rules up till today.

As we see, ideals are the supporting pillars of society. If this support is weak then society becomes weak too. The members are neither given any importance nor respect. So sensible people should start to live a life with ideals. This will be their true service to humanity.
