

Your Life is very valuable.

A human being is forgetting the importance of their life. In this materialistic age there was a time when importance was given to a person's character, their words, their virtues, But today importance is only given to wealth, which leads the person to the path of sin and throws him/her into the dirty canal of addiction and makes them stand behind prison bars. A person is a being with consciousness, a beautiful mind and elevated intellect. He/She has thinking faculty and if they wish they can make their life a treasure of happiness. But the desire for wealth has corrupted the mind and intellect, with the result that wealth alone has become their God and everything.

What makes a human life valuable? Time, breath, words, thoughts, virtues, powers, happiness, peace... All these are invaluable treasures of life and on losing them, a person becomes valueless. You must have seen many of your acquaintances cursing their bad luck, but they are the ones who have wasted their time and so time has dominated over them. Many people are seen surrounded by problems and tensions and those are the ones, who have wasted and polluted their thoughts. Many talkative others irritate others with their talk. They do not know that through limited talk, the value of their life will increase.

Many people have lost total happiness and peace due to bad habits. When they started their addictions, they enjoyed but when those same addictions started eating them up, they came to their senses. Countless people are leading a sad life. Happiness cannot be bought in shops. Their sins have snatched their happiness away.

So know the value of your life. The most important time in one's life is his/her childhood and it is very sad that in the present times, no matter where these children go, with whom they go, there is no one to give value-based education to them. How will time shape them? We have heard those who repent saying "How good it would have been if someone had given us a value-based education in our childhood". So in order to give a bright future to the new generation, the older generation should show them the right path. The children should refrain from reading bad books or filmy magazines or wasting time in play. In the golden times of childhood one should fill one's mind with positive thoughts, pay full attention to health and try to gain inspiration from every situation and adopt virtues from every person.

Tensions begin as soon as you open your eyes; this is no life. The person who is accompanied by tensions to his/her death bed leads a life full of obstacles and hardships, and finally cries out, "What is the need of this kind of life?" Human life is a beautiful gift from God. Life is to exchange happiness, to bring benefit to others, to sustain others with love. The life of that person is very valuable, who maintains pure thoughts, whose dealings with others are pure, and on the contrary, a person who is corrupt, without morals and subservient to vices is like an animal.

Know your value; there is no one as valuable as you are in the whole world. One rich man asked a poor person to sell one of his eyes for 10 million rupees, as his son had lost one eye. As the poor person could manage with one eye and also get so much money, the deal would help him. But the poor man was not ready to sell his eye at any cost. So, such value these eyes have and how can one see vicious things with these eyes?

A person values each moment only at the time when he/she is on the deathbed. Otherwise, during their lifetime, they keep wasting their time. If sensible people give importance to time, then time will make them important. Actually, those who are always out of time, are those who waste time. Your life has a lot of value. You are the support for many. You can ignite the light of hope in many people's life. You have to fulfill the desires of many people. You should become so worthy that you pass all tests with flying colours. Do not sell your life at the rate of shells/stones. Become worthy so that your family and society are proud of you. If you waste time in unnecessarily just eating, sleeping and talking, not taking responsibility to complete any task, not hard-working, then your life has no value.

Our present life is most valuable. You have met God in this life. You can become a deity by imbibing His knowledge and become fortunate in every birth. Acquire the blessings from God and make yourself worthy by serving mankind. Give importance to your life, only then will others give you importance.
